Big wheel keeps on BURNING

Firefighters from around the county battled a blaze that gutted the old Paddle Wheel Motel at Clermont Harbor Thursday morning. Emergency teams were called back out Friday when the fire re-kindled. Paddle Wheel destroyed in fire

BY GEOFF BELCHER

An early morning blaze nearly consumed the old Paddle Wheel Motel Thursday, then drew firefighters back the next day when it rekindled.

"They couldn't put it out," Warren Boney, assistant manager and self-described life-long resident of the Paddle Wheel, said Friday. "They pumped a half-million gallons of water on it and then we got five inches of rain...and then it flared up again last night a couple of times."

Beach parking lot problems continue

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Plans to charge for parking at a Beach Boulevard lot took a temporary tumble Thursday when city officials refused to issue a business license for the new enterprise.

But after city officials conferred further on the matter, they said they were ready Friday morning to issue the license for operations.

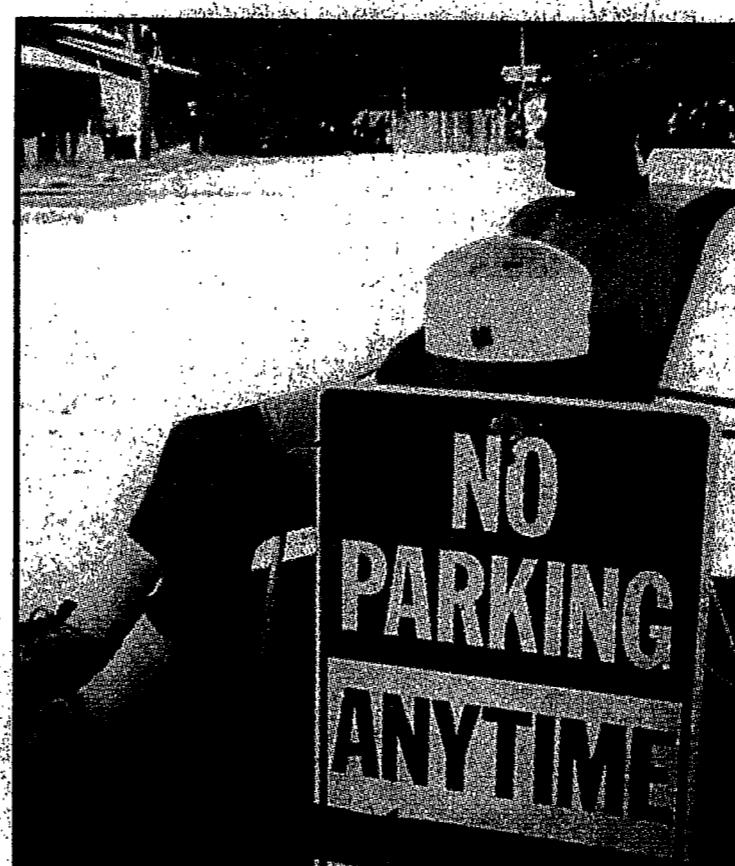

Members of the Murphy family, new landlords of the lot, said they had no choice but to cordon off the formerly free parking area and tow off any lingering vehicles after they were refused a permit Thursday.

Friday morning, the normally full lot was empty, except for an attendant who was letting Hancock Bank drive-through traffic exit onto Beach Boulevard.

The lot at issue until recently had functioned as a free parking area for the bustling Beach Boulevard's business traffic and local employees. The city paved the lot several years ago, and had a city parking lot sign at its entranceway.

The Murphy family, however, said the Murphys secured a lease purchase agreement on the property recently, as part of their plans to generate a beach hotel development. The parking lot, and a beachfront lot across the street from it, was involved in the transaction as a package.

New chief tapped for city schools

Bay-Waveland names Stasny to fill top spot

BY GEOFF BELCHER

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District has a new superintendent.

The district's board of trustees wasted no time in special session Friday in appointing Dr. Kim Stasny—the school system's acting superintendent since Dr. Mike Reed retired—to the position fulltime.

"I'm very excited about the challenges ahead of me," Stasny said after the meeting. "I'm looking forward to working with everyone in our district and our community."

Stasny

Stasny was selected from a group of 10 candidates who applied for the job after it was advertised in May, all of whom live outside of the district. Other candidates were Virgil Fulcher, Stephen Handly, Cephus Jackson, Michael Peterson, Albert Snow, Gary Tierce, Bruce Weigle, Barbara White and Dwight Yates.

According to a press release issued just after Friday's meeting, Stasny is a 19-year veteran in the educational system and has spent the last eight years in the district as a principal and as assistant superintendent; holds a Ph.D in educational administration from the University of New Orleans, a master's degree in elementary education from the University of Southern Mississippi and a B.A. in elementary education from Millsaps College.

Stasny's appointment is for three years with a fourth-year option.

Kentucky editor imported to Echo

BY ED LEPOMA

Geoff Belcher was named news editor of The Sea Coast Echo last Tuesday by Ellis C. Cuevas, publisher.

The 30-year-old native of Prestonsburg, Ky. comes to Hancock County after serving as news editor of the Appalachian News-Express in Pikeville, Ky., a thrice-weekly newspaper.

A graduate of the University of Kentucky at Lexington, Belcher has a B.A. degree in English.

He began his newspaper career shortly after graduating in 1990, working as a reporter for the Floyd County Times in Prestonsburg.

From the Times, Belcher accepted a job as editor of the Big Sandy News, a weekly in Louisa, Ky.

Later, he served in public relations capacity for the Floyd County School District.

Belcher joined the staff of the Appalachian News-Express as a reporter in April of 1998, and was promoted to news editor the following September.

His relocation to Hancock County marks the first time he has crossed the Mason-Dixon line, but Belcher said he had already become familiar with the area.

After months of wrangling, Pass Christian has created a Harbor Advisory Commission.

The Board of Alderman on Tuesday night, with little discussion, passed an ordinance to create the advisory group by a 4-1 vote. Ward 1 Alderman Jeff Emerson cast the dissenting vote.

Ward 3 Alderman Michael Antoine sponsored the legislation, reactivating a commission which Mayor Billy McDonald terminated in April 1998. The mayor took the action after receiving an attorney general's ruling that said the Comis-

Port Bienville industrial park may get new tenant

BY ED LEPOMA

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission this week gave a strong hint that a new tenant might soon be coming to the Port Bienville Industrial Park.

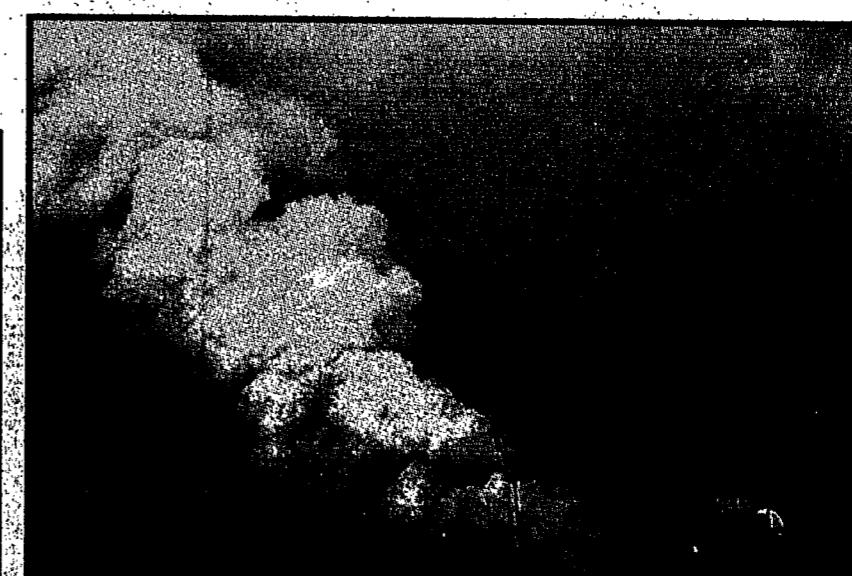

The clue came when P&H Director Hal Walters appeared before the Board of Supervisors recess meeting Tuesday, accompanied by the port's railroad manager, Greg Deakle.

Supervisors passed a resolution that will allow the P&H to go forward and make application with the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development for a CAP loan of $500,000.

Walters told supervisors that a prospective tenant has

Waveland residents urged to recycle

BY ED LEPOMA

Diamondhead residents are leading the county in recycling, but a new push will be made to have more Waveland citizens participate.

Hancock County's Regional Solid Waste Authority held its monthly meeting Wednesday and heard a report on recycling from Larry Kehrer, president of Mississippi ResorSys, which picks up recyclable materials in Diamondhead and in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

"June was a banner month for recycling in Hancock County," Kehrer said. "In particular, participation in Diamondhead exceeded 70 percent, and nearly 30,000 pounds of recyclables were collected each week."

Beginning last May, MS ResorSys began collecting recyclables from Diamondhead residents without charge to the Authority. Most residents already had collection bins, and Kehrer said last June, 3,167 residents of the upscale community participated.

cipated in recycling.

A test recycling program was conducted in Waveland, and Kehrer said initial collections prove promising, but a new push will be made to increase participation once more collection bins can be purchased by the Authority and distributed to residents.

The Authority voted to spend $400 and purchase 200 more bins at $2 each from Waste Management Inc.

The Authority also voted to amend Kehrer's recycling contract and pay the firm five cents more per household in Diamondhead to continue recycling products, including mixed paper. The increase amounts to an additional $429 a month and brings his monthly billings to $14,843.

Waveland Mayor Tommy Longo told Kehrer he has had several calls from residents who want to recycle, and he wants to work with Kehrer on a promotional campaign to raise awareness.

Kehrer promised to work with the mayor, and said his firm plans an educational campaign soon that will include display ads in local newspapers.

"The first will encourage non-participating households...to contact us for a collection bin and how to participate. The second will encourage 'light commercial' businesses in Bay St. Louis and Waveland to participate," Kehrer.

He said his firm also will prepare a public service announcement to promote the Stanis drop-off site and mixed paper recycling.

Kehrer said Stennis has agreed to provide funding for a drop-off site at the South gate, and it should be operational by July 12.

Kehrer said MS ResorSys also plans to provide recycling education programs in all area schools beginning with the new school year.

In other business, Kehrer noted that his four-year contract with the Authority is due to expire next October, and he would like a recount of households since billing has been done using a count established in October of 1996 when the contract period began.

The Authority temporarily tabled a request by Curtis Johnson that would require amending Hancock County's 20-year Solid Waste Plan.

Johnson has a DEQ-permitted Class I Rubbish Site off Hwy. 43 and Fire Tower Road, but wants it upgraded in order to accept "light commercial" products. Johnson said non-polluting-type creosote cross ties and other items that would be dumped there would require the installation of a liner at the pit.

The Authority decided to invite DEQ to Hancock County for a future workshop to discuss the request.

If the plan goes forward, a public hearing would be required on Johnson's petition to amend the Solid Waste Plan and upgrade the facility.

Waveland honors distinguished citizens

BY BENNIE WEDGWOOD

Topping the agenda at Waveland's Board of Alderman's meeting Wednesday night were three presentations by Mayor Tommy Longo.

The first went to Ms. Jolinda Geoffrey, a princess at the recent Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo for her dedication and service to the success of the event. Ms. Geoffrey presented the mayor with her crown, which he graciously accepted, but declined to wear.

Next, retired Park Manager Greg Smith was honored for 23 years of service to Buccaneer State Park. Smith's career with the Mississippi Park Service started in 1973 and at Buccaneer in 1977.

During his term, the park has enjoyed numerous improvements to the grounds and services and increased attendance.

Smith thanked the city for its police and fire protection over the years. He also pointed out that Johnny Longo, the current mayor's late father, was mayor when he started at Buccaneer, so he felt it was only appropriate that Tommy was mayor as he is retiring.

The last presentation of the evening was a surprise to City Clerk Lisa Planchard, who has just finished a three-year course at Mississippi State University. The program, sponsored by the university, makes Planchard the first certified municipal clerk in Waveland in 10 years.

Other business discussed at a workshop concerned a drainage problem in the 200 block of Hillcrest Street. Existing construction is causing blockage and flooding in the area.

There is currently a moratorium on filling land in the area, but apparently the construction in this block obtained permission from the federal agency, CORE, to add fill, which is causing the problem. The county is responsible for stepping in to finish outflow drains, but has yet to do so. Until this happens, the construction has been halted.

It was pointed out that many people are buying property in low-lying areas, not realizing that wetlands cannot be replaced by filling in the land.

The Seabees have volunteered their labor for a complete renovation of all ballparks and playgrounds in Waveland.

Funds for the equipment and landscaping come from a grant applied for through the office of U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor.

Hancock still trying to sell Health Building

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County will try a third time to sell the deteriorating former Health Building on Dunbar Avenue.

Supervisors voted at Tuesday's meeting to readvertise the surplus building and property, but this time the minimum asking price is $60,000.

The decision to rebid for the sale of the property was unanimous, despite the fact that Hancock County's Narcotics Task Force had asked the county if it could move its operations into the building.

County Attorney Gerald Gex

said there was some concern about housing the Task Force across the street from Bay Elementary School and directly adjacent to the Dunbar Retirement Village even though no arrested drug suspects would be taken to the building or housed there.

Last February, SentryCare bid $76,000 for the building and property, but that bid had to be rejected because of an inaccurate property description in the original advertisement calling for bids.

Task Force Director Shane Corr told the Echo he remained hopeful about relocating his operations to the building.

The county last opened bids for the property in March, and received two bids.

SentryCare, which runs the Dunbar Village, wants the property for expansion, but submitted a bid of $35,000. SentryCare President Chris Cheek said the bid was low because Bay St. Louis building officials told him they would not grant a waiver to renovate and use the building because it is one foot below the 12-foot-base flood elevation that is required on Dunbar Avenue.

Shoreline residents waiting for sewer connection

BY ED LEPOMA

If you're a Shoreline Park resident waiting to be connected to sewer lines $35 will get you a 30-day grace period.

The Hancock County Water and Sewer District met Thursday and heard from one realtor, who said he is having difficulty finding a plumber or a contractor to link two properties he rents to the sewer system. He said he was afraid he could not meet the August 1 deadline the District has imposed for all residents recently connected to tie into the sewer system.

And, District Vice Chairman Herman Johnson said he had gotten telephone calls from "at least two dozen people" expressing the same concern.

"It's obvious, we're not going to get them all hooked up by the Aug. 1 deadline," said Johnson.

He motioned that residents be given another 30-day grace period, but each resident not yet connected needs to come to the District office and pay a $35 permit fee.

Johnson's motion passed 4-1, with Sid Davis voting against.

A report from District Administration Pam Gauthreaux was read at the meeting by Chairman Al Smith, and she reported so far 236 of the 603 new customers are hooked up, but there is a list of 138 waiting to be connected. The District's work force is about 10 days behind hooking up people who are paying them to run their sewer pipes from their house to the connection at the street.

A District spokesman said residents who want the 30-day extension should come to the office at 3068 Longfellow Drive on the east end of the Civic Center between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Bay boy in fair shape after wreck

BY ED LEPOMA

A Louisiana teenager was killed and a Bay St. Louis child was injured in a two-car collision earlier this week on Interstate 10 in Slidell.

The accident, which occurred near the Old Spanish Trail exit, backed up westbound traffic for several miles for almost two hours.

According to police, witnesses said a car driven eastbound by Dustin Lambert, 18, of Harahan, La. spun across the median about 10 a.m. Wednesday, flipped them crashed into the oncoming vehicle driven by Britten Parsons.

Lambert was taken by ambulance to Northshore Regional Medical Center where he died of several injuries. Louis Walsdorf, also 18 and from Harahan, was taken to Northshore Regional Medical Center and later released after treatment. State Police Sgt. John Hartzog said the two young men were not wearing seat belts.

Parsons was taken to Slidell Memorial Hospital, treated and released. But, his son, six-year-old Dylan Parsons, suffered a fractured pelvis and a bruised chest and face.

He spent a night and day in the intensive care unit, but a hospital spokesman on Friday morning told the Echo the child had been taken out of the intensive care unit, and his condition was upgraded to fair.

Lambert was leading a two-car caravan to the Mississippi beaches. Both he and Walsdorf graduated last May from Riverdale High School in Jefferson.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

On Wednesday of this week I spoke to Robert (Bob) Scharff, author of Louisiana's Loss, Mississippi's Gain, a lengthy history of Hancock County released last month.

The book on the history of Hancock County has a lot of locals talking highly about its content.

Just a bit of background on Scharff, who now resides in Charlotte, N.C. He was reared in Bay St. Louis. His father and mother, the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scharff were the owners of the Jitney Jungle franchise for many years in Bay St. Louis.

The Hancock Historical Society regards the book so highly that it has selected it to be included into the time capsule in the Tercentenary Park in Bay St. Louis next month.

Charles Gray, society president, has read a large portion of Scharff's edition, and is very pleased, thrilled, etc., with the contents and its presentation of Hancock County's past history.

I talked to Susan Daigre at Bookends, and she reports she is now selling her fifth order of Louisiana's Loss, Mississippi's Gain.

Scharff's publisher is Brunswick Publishing Corporation of Lawrenceville, Va.

The book has over 700 pages and contains some 100 old photos.

I have started to read Scharff's publication and am really enjoying its contents.

Congratulations are in order for Rev. Charles Johnson of Bay St. Louis upon being named the Mississippi Hospital Association's (MHA) Distinguished Hospital Trustee of the Year.

Father J., as he is known by many of us, has been a member of the local hospital's trustees for the past 32 years and has been trustee president for over 25 years.

I think it is a great honor for one of our citizens to be named State Hospital Trustee of the World. Just think, MHA has a total of 118 member hospitals across the state and each hospital has five or more trustees.

Hardly a day goes by that Father J. is not at Hancock Medical Center staying in touch with every aspect of the hospital's operation.

Rev. Johnson is very deserving to receive the prestigious award. I have known of him since he arrived in Bay St. Louis in 1948 to begin a 36-year career as rector of Christ Episcopal. My late mother, being a seamstress, made several of his garments.

He was the headmaster and spearheaded the founding of Christ Episcopal Elementary School and has been involved in our community in so many endeavors.

Congratulations again, Father J., we, as well as your family, are very proud of you.

Residents of Waveland do not want to forget the community organization "Helping Hands"-sponsored "A Neighborhood Clean-Up Day" next Saturday, July 17 at the Martin Luther King Park.

Everyone wishing to join in and help beautify the neighborhood will meet at 7:30 a.m. at the park located on Herlihy Street.

It is hoped there will be a large turnout for the clean-up day.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

New resident appreciates Bay's people, appalled by lack of cleanliness

To the Editor:

I've just celebrated my second 4th of July in Bay St. Louis. This is a marvelous place to live, with friendly and interesting people to meet. I particularly enjoy being on the beach, and I find the lack of cleanliness there appalling. Even though I appreciate the rights that people have to explode fireworks on the beach, the condition in which the beach is left is disgraceful.

Even by Tuesday evening, there had been no "official" cleanup conducted on the beach area from Washington Street to the Bay St. Louis city limits. The trash cans were overflowing, and even if there were those who may have utilized them, were unusable. Are there not city workers whose responsibilities include beach cleanup?

Fellow beach-goers assisted my clean-up efforts, and for this I am grateful. Even with:

Sincerely,
Ann R. Vanderbeek
Bay St. Louis

FROM THE GOVERNOR

By Governor Kirk Fordice

Special Session is needed to pass income tax relief

Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court John Marshall wrote: "The power to tax involved the power to destroy." To protect your family from the destructive power of runaway taxation, I have set a Special Session of the Legislature for July 22 to consider an income tax rebate—the same tax cut that passed the House of Representatives with broad, bipartisan support but was not brought up for a vote in the Senate Finance Committee.

The tax cut I am proposing is simple: a 10 percent personal income tax rebate. Representative Charlie Williams' version, which passed the House by 95 percent, provides for a phase-in of the rebate over a five-year period.

In 1999, Mississippians worked until May 4 just to pay their taxes—124 days of work before even a dime went in their pockets. When Mississippians work 82 days to pay federal taxes and 42 days to pay state and local taxes, the time has come for state lawmakers to give hard-earned tax dollars back to the rightful owners—the people of Mississippi.

In Fiscal Year 1998, the State of Mississippi enjoyed a $101 million surplus, and FY 1999 has thus far witnessed a 10 percent growth rate in personal income tax collections. State income tax collections continue to soar.

As of May 31, revenues to the general fund from individual income tax exceeded the sine die revenue estimate by $98.8 million. All of this means simply that unless something is done, the state will have another large, general fund surplus this year.

In Mississippi, the Governor has only limited power. One thing he can do is to put rocks in the path of those who crave the taxpayers' hard-earned money—and I am about to do some heavy-lifting.

I am calling this special tax-cut session of the Legislature, now, in an election year for a very good reason. The average politician is afraid of one thing: being defeated and having to return to the real world.

I can bring the Legislature to Jackson, and the Legislators will have to answer to the voters for their vote on a long-overdue tax cut; however, only the voters can make them perform. The people's representatives should be held accountable in the upcoming elections for their vote on this richly deserved and entirely feasible tax relief.

The benefits to the Mississippi taxpayer of a tax cut vastly outweigh the cost of a Special Session. Citizens of Mississippi, it's your money. Call your legislators today and demand its return.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Satellite TV viewers deserve fair shake

An increasing number of South Mississippians have contacted me about their inability to receive network services from their satellite TV providers. For this reason, on April 27 I voted for HR 1554, the Satellite Copyright, Competition and Consumer Protection Act, which passed the House of Representatives.

The Satellite Home Viewer Act (SHVA) originally passed Congress in 1988. It established how satellite carriers are able to retransmit network station and distant network signals. Additional improvements in the bill are the elimination of a 90-day waiting period for cable subscribers to switch to satellite TV.

More importantly, it requires the FCC to establish a new signal intensity level for determining an acceptable picture for individual homes

receiving a network signal.

SHVA directed that satellite carriers may provide network programming to their customers who live in "unserved households." The law defines an "unserved" household as one which cannot, using a conventional rooftop antenna, receive a signal of at least Grade B from their local network affiliate. Grade B reception indicates a picture of minimum acceptable quality.

Many satellite owners have contacted me and said that their satellite provider has cut them off from network programming. The problem is that while they have been cut off because they live in an area which is considered "served" by network affiliates, they are still not receiving a clear and decent picture with a rooftop antenna.

At certain times, poor reception within a network service area can have a number of causes such as hills, trees and even weather.

The bottom line is that while the Federal Elections Commission (FCC) tried to make a definitive test, their current test is not a definitive geographical test for receiving TV signals with a rooftop antenna.

The bill I mentioned earlier, HR 1554, extends for five years the ability of satellite carriers to retransmit superstation and distant network signals. Additional improvements in the bill are the elimination of a 90-day waiting period for cable subscribers to switch to satellite TV.

More importantly, it

requires the FCC to establish a new signal intensity level for determining an acceptable picture for individual homes

receiving a network signal.

There are other satellite consumer improvements in HR 1554, but the most important is that the new tests required by the bill provide that if a person cannot receive a quality network signal with a rooftop antenna, the consumer will be allowed to receive network programming from a satellite provider.

I understand the frustration of satellite customers in South Mississippi and that's why I voted for HR 1554. I am still frustrated, although the U.S. Senate passed its own version of a satellite bill, the House and Senate conferees appointed to iron out the differences in the two bills are currently stalled.

There are not many differences between the House and Senate versions, but the differences are big. I hope that next week the differences will be resolved and both the House and Senate can consider the final bill. If the final bill is still fair to satellite viewers, I will vote for it.

Bennett asks U.S. Congress for tax relief on college savings

Treasurer Marshall Bennett asked the nation's congressional leaders to support tax relief for families by providing tax-free treatment for state college tuition programs.

In testimony before the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee considering tax legislation, Bennett said: "Congress should make state college tuition programs tax-free in order to encourage savings and college attendance and amend current tax law to help families plan, prepare and save rather than rely on student loans or financial aid to educate their children."

As chairman of the nation's college Savings Plan Network (CSPN) Bennett supports changes in tax law which would establish an exclusion from gross income for distributions from the tuition programs.

"Under current law, the taxation of distribution is deferred. We want to enable and motivate families to save for college by providing clear and easily understood tax treatment of the qualified state tuition plans," Bennett added.

Congress is considering a number of bills to permit private colleges and universities to establish qualified tuition programs. According to Bennett, "We (CSPN) support all proposals designed to encourage families to save for their children's higher education, because making it easier for families to save for college is in the long-term interest of the nation."

"However, we urge assurance of effective oversight and financial security of the private programs. The last thing anyone wants is for even one poorly managed private college to market a savings plan that becomes insolvent and leaves parents sion formed by former Mayor Ted Lawyer was illegal because an act of the legislature was required in order to create a Port and Harbor Commission. Antoine and Ward 2 Alderman Margaret Jean Kalif disagreed with the AG's opinion, but have now agreed that the Commission would serve only as an advisory panel.

It cannot obligate the city to any debt without first getting approval of the mayor and Board of Aldermen. And, it cannot solicit private contributions or county, state or federal funds without prior approval.

The panel, however, can make recommendations on the upkeep of the harbor and rents that are paid by fishermen and commercial tenants using the municipal facility.

The legislation would create a seven-member advisory panel which would serve staggering terms, but city attorney Malcolm Jones said initially the members selected could only serve two-year terms, which is the length of service left by the incumbent mayor and Board.

Federal programs restore wetlands, help farm families keep homes

Across the country, two American traditions are quickly disappearing—abundant wildlife habitat and family farms. A pair of voluntary government programs promises relief for both, and current bills in the U.S. Congress could expand these programs nationwide.

The United States is losing its wetlands (some of nature's most productive ecosystems) at a rate of more than 170,000 acres a year. Grasslands, forests and other important habitats are disappearing at similarly alarming rates.

At the same time, global economic problems are forcing many farmers out of business. Last fall, Congress approved nearly $6 billion in emergency farm aid. Federally subsidized crop insurance may cost another $4 billion.

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) and Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP) are restoring wildlife habitat and, at the same time, helping save many family farms. By paying farmers to set aside land for wildlife, these programs have restored millions of acres across the country at a cost of about $2 billion annually.

The conservation Reserve

Program was initiated in 1985 to help stem erosion on agricultural lands. The program pays farmers to retire their croplands from production for 10 years, slowing erosion and providing prime cover for breeding birds and other wildlife. Today, more than 36 million acres are enrolled in CRP.

The Wetland Reserve Program places conservation easements on marginally productive agricultural lands and restores them to wetlands, more than 800,000 acres are enrolled in this program. Many WRP lands are in the environmentally important Mississippi Delta.

Officials from Ducks Unlimited, the continent's largest wetlands and waterfowl conservation group, and other groups are recommending that the cap on CRP be raised from 36.4 million to 45 million acres. Likewise, they would like to see the WRP cap raised from 975,000 to 2 million acres.

"We are encouraging our members to contact their congressmen and urge them to support the expansion of CRP and WRP," says Matt Connolly, executive vice president of Ducks Unlimited. "These programs are examples of government programs that work for wildlife and work for people, too."

Conservation Corner

By James L. Cummins, Jr.

Wetlands are valuable to different people for different reasons. Some prize wetlands, for the rich wildlife and fish resources found there. Others see wetlands as important areas for sediment retention, ground water recharge and flood control.

Small, seasonally flooded wetlands along streams and rivers provide places for animals to feed and reproduce. In these areas, small invertebrates occur in great numbers and become food for larger animals which, in turn, become food for even larger animals.

Many wetlands are valuable as roosting sites. For example, hollow trees in a wetland may be used by many cavity-nesting birds from wood ducks to chickadees. Some mammals, like squirrels, use standing, hollow trees as den sites. Others, like raccoons and otters, use hollow trees after they fall.

According to Peyton Self, president of Wildlife Mississippi, "Three-fourths of the wetlands in the United States are controlled by private landowners. These remaining wetlands provide essential habitat for waterfowl and other wetland-dependent wildlife, and if we are to ever increase their population, incentives such as the Wetland Reserve Program will not only enable interested landowners to develop waterfowl habitat, but will help compensate them for removing their land from agricultural production."

The Wetlands Reserve Program is one of the landmark environmental steps in the 1990 and 1996 Farm Bills. It is a voluntary program that offers financial incentives to landowners who have previously converted wetlands to cropland or pastureland.

Landowners who qualify are compensated for the value of their land in exchange for restoring these areas back to wildlife habitat.

If the land offered is eligible, and the compensation requested is acceptable, cost-share assistance will be provided for restoring the land under a 30-year or permanent easement.

Land will be restored to bottomland hardwoods and shallow water areas for wildlife. Certain compatible uses of the land under easement by the landowner will be permitted in exchange for continued maintenance of the land.

Currently, Mississippi has approximately 200 landowners participating. These landowners, in partnership with the Natural Resources Conservation Service, have restored over 85,000 acres.

Mississippi ranks second in the nation in Wetland Reserve

Program enrollment. Nation-wide, the goal of the program is to enroll approximately one million acres by the end of 2002.

Landowners should contact their local office of the Natural Resources Conservation Service in their local U.S. Department of Agriculture Service Center for further information.

James L. Cummins, Jr. is executive director of the Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Foundation in Stoneville. Known as "Wildlife Mississippi," the foundation is a non-profit, conservation organization founded to conserve, restore and enhance fish, wildlife and plant resources throughout Mississippi.

Eagles' football schedule set

University of Southern Mississippi athletic director Richard Giannini announced that game times for all Southern Miss home football games this fall have been finalized.

The Golden Eagles will open the 1999 season against Tulane Sept. 6 at 2 p.m. That game will be televised nationally by Fox Sports Net.

The Eagles' other home games during the 1999 season, with the exception of the Northwestern (La.) State game Sept. 11, are also slated for 2 p.m. starts. The Northwestern State game is scheduled for a 6 p.m. kickoff.

All game times are still subject to change depending on television coverage.

Game times for four of the Eagles' six road games for the 1999 season have also been set, but like the home games, could change for television. Following is a complete list of available game times for the season.

Riskier investments hike profits, losses

By Chuck Dunlap

Investment opportunities abound for the daring and not-so-daring investors as the booming economy has Americans searching for places to put their earnings.

Many Americans still prefer the traditional no-risk savings accounts as their only investment tools. Savings account interest rates have fallen to under two percent, the lowest rates available. Other risk-free alternatives such as money market deposit accounts and certificates of deposit offer as much as five percent interest rates.

Dr. Beverly Howell, Extension family economics and management specialist at Mississippi State University, said most people have not studied the options available so they rely on the familiar and convenient savings accounts.

"Banks do a good job of getting the information on alternatives to the public," Howell said.

Annual reports contain valuable information

Looking for a good read? How about the annual reports of your stocks and mutual funds?

Many people limit the study of their investments to watching market values fluctuate. But if you want to know why your stock or mutual fund performs the way it does, check out its semiannual or annual report.

The first thing to look for is the report to shareholders. This is a "state of the company" address by the CEO or president explaining to you, a shareholder and owner of the business, events that influenced your company's performance in the past year. This report typically relates economic and political conditions to your investment, attempts to explain why the market reacted in the way it did, and compares your investment's performance to that of similar investments.

For example, the annual report of a typical bond mutual fund might discuss how the currency crisis in Southeast Asia helped keep inflationary pressures in check and U.S. interest rates low. It might further examine how the concerns about world stock markets increased the demand for domestic bonds. Finally, it would probably compare the fund's results to the recognized bond indexes.

Reports to shareholders not only review past and current conditions, they also discuss circumstances that may affect your investment's future performance. These valuable discussions allow you to evaluate the reasoning and thought process of management.

In a mutual fund annual report, the statement of investments provides a detailed list of financial holdings, organized by asset category: common stocks, corporate bonds, government securities, etc. These categories are further divided by industry. Here you can see the names of all the individual securities, the number of shares held and the market values at the end of the reporting period. This section reveals exactly what you own and illustrates the diversification you enjoy from your investment.

Similarly, company annual reports include a section called "Products and Subsidiary Business." Here you can see the diversity of your company's products, and you may even discover profitable subsidiaries you might not have been aware of.

Finally, look for the performance summary. This section provides the dollars and cents on company performance and investment value. Mutual fund annual reports offer an easy-to-read summary of their average annual and cumulative total returns over different time periods. Typically, there's also a line graph comparing your fund's performance against one of the widely accepted benchmarks indexes.

Companies spend a lot of time and effort to keep shareholders informed through their annual reports. They may not make the Book-of-the-Month Club, but annual reports are a must-read for any investor serious about financial success.

For the consumer willing to take some risks, money market mutual funds have become quite popular for those looking for even bigger returns. Though not as risky as playing the stock market, mutual funds invest in a wide range of tools, including stocks, corporate bonds and U.S. Treasuries. Returns are realized through income dividends, capital gain distributions or profits for selling shares. Mutual funds are not insured by the FDIC, but rather regulated by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Younger people are more interested in growth and the future, so they are more likely to choose the alternatives to the traditional savings account," Howell said. "Younger adults are also more likely to take some risks as well. Conventional savings accounts typically are used by and appeal mainly to older customers because they have used them throughout their lives.

"Any decision involving your savings should include an assessment of your age, risk tolerance and overall investment portfolio. As with any decision involving money, educating yourself is key."

Crowley to relocate to Port of Gulfport

Crowley American Transport announced that they will shift their US Gulf-Central America and Mexico Service from Lake Charles, La., to the Port of Gulfport beginning July 26.

"The Mississippi State Port Authority welcomes the Crowley American Transport service to the Port of Gulfport," said Anthony J. Taormina, executive director, Mississippi State Port Authority.

"The decision Crowley made in selecting the Port of Gulfport shows the strategic importance of our port. The addition of Crowley American Transport to the Port of Gulfport will greatly enhance the Port Authority's capability to bring transportation solutions to Mississippi businesses and other shippers to and from the US Gulf Coast."

In 1994, the Mississippi State Port Authority and the Department of Economic and Community Development (DECD) adopted a Strategic Master Plan setting a course of action for the port of Gulfport to enhance its maritime capabilities.

The business plan for the Port Authority proposed to expand the Port of Gulfport by approximately 84 acres to accommodate container storage, to rehabilitate and expand transit sheds, and to develop a centralized support area to improve access and services of existing customers.

Over the past five years, the Board of Port Commissioners and DECD have worked closely together to implement this strategic plan.

"Today's announcement,"

said John Rester, president, Board of Port Commissioners,

"proves that the Port

Authority and DECD are one

the right course by expanding

the port's maritime capabilities."

One of the key business goals of the Strategic Master Plan was to attract a major general cargo container carrier to the West Terminal, Port of Gulfport.

"This past year the Port of Gulfport identified Crowley American Transport as key target for the Mississippi Public Container Terminal (MS-PCT), according to Taormina.

"When we heard about the changes at Lake Charles, the port's Business Development Division immediately went to work to contact Crowley and to demonstrate how we can support their service with our facilities and the port's excellent work force."

Crowley American Transport will add 80 vessel calls annually to the Port of Gulfport, and when combined with the existing vessel calls of the Great White Fleet and Dole Fresh Fruit, the Port of Gulfport will become the US Gulf Coast hub port for shippers to Honduras, Nicaragua, Guatemala, El Salvador and the Mexican Yucatan Peninsula.

"We look forward to bringing Crowley's award-winning quality service to this new port and expect that it will be well received by shippers in the region," said Rinus Schepen, Crowley vice president and general manager, Central America & Mexico Services.

The Port of Gulfport handles more than 2,000,000 short tons of container, breakbulk and bulk general cargo with 300 vessel calls per year. Major customers include Chiquita Brands, Dole Fresh Fruit, duPont, Curatex S.A. and I.T.O. Corporation.

The Port of Gulfport is a leading US Port of Entry for bananas and other tropical fruits and also provides service to US poultry exporters through on-dock freezer facilities.

The Port of Gulfport is an enterprise agency of the State of Mississippi, operated and administered by the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development, through the Mississippi State Port Authority.

The State Port Authority is responsible for over 4,000 direct and indirect jobs and more than $500 million in economic benefits to the state of Mississippi.

Fire -- site seems prone to disaster contain the blaze Thursday, including the Clermont Harbor, Bay St. Louis, Waveland, East Hancock, Kiln, Fenton and Bay-side Park fire departments, along with Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department.

After one agency ran out of water, firefighters from the Bay St. Louis Fire Department drew water from Clermont Harbor to aim at the flames.

Hancock County Fire Marshal Richard Pate, the state fire marshal and representatives from the federal bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms were investigating the fire Friday.

Pate said Thursday that the fire apparently began on the top floor of the facility, but said the cause of the blaze has not yet been determined. The investigation should be complete by tomorrow, he said.

Despite losing most of their personal belongings, Pate said, motel residents were lucky to have escaped.

"With the way the winds were blowing and all, it took the smoke up in the air, so it didn't go back down and suffocate people ..." Pate said. "If this had happened at night, we'd have probably been in a very bad situation."

The local chapter of the American Red Cross has arranged temporary housing for most of the fire victims.

"All I can say is, thank God everybody got out of there," Bobbi Terry, one of the residents of the 18-room motel/apartment complex said Thursday as rescue workers from several area fire companies battled the flames.

After further study of the matter, however, the city determined a license was in order, he said.

Favre also said the city did pave the parking lot, but Hancock Bank was paying property taxes on the lot at the time.

Parking -- controversy deepens

Now facing liability insurance costs and note payments for the parking facility, the Murphys announced plans to operate it as a commercial enterprise until, at least, their feasibility study of a downtown development is complete. In the interim, they offered last week to lease the lot back to the city, for $5,000 a month.

City Council rejected that proposal Tuesday, but wished the Murphy family good luck in operating the lot. In a later move, council agreed to pay consultants up to $12,000 to study all downtown area parking slots now available and potential parking facilities.

Ray Murphy said a parking lot attendant's booth was under construction on Thursday, preparatory to opening the lot commercially that evening. But during the day, he couldn't procure a license to operate the facility.

Murphy quoted a clerk as telling him: "They just told me not to give you a license." He said when he asked for a reason, she added: "They didn't tell me."

The clerk and Mayor Eddie Favre later confirmed that the Murphy's license had been held up. But Favre said it was just a temporary snag, while city officials checked to be sure everything was in order to issue the permanent license.

Favre said the city building official, municipal clerk and city attorney wanted to review to make sure that the operation meets all city codes.

Earlier this month, however, Municipal Clerk Robert Parker said in a letter to Murphy that a conditional privilege license to operate Beach Parking, between Chessy's Antiques and the Fire Dog Saloon, "is being issued contingent upon your parking lot meeting all requirements as set out in the City's Zoning Ordinance Sect. 604.1.14, attached."

The attachment states that parking lots are allowed in the commercial central business district, "provided they shall be paved so as to provide a durable and dustless surface so as to dispose of all surface water accumulation. Lights so used to illuminate the parking area will be so arranged as to reflect away from any adjacent premises."

Ironically, it rained Thursday. Murphy said the only water he could find anywhere near the lot was in the city's right-of-way outside the parking lot. As for the paving requirement, Murphy added: "We know it's paved. They paved it and we appreciate it." He added that the paving was illegal, however, since the city didn't have ownership of the property when it occurred.

Murphy questions how the city could have left the lot open for public use if it didn't meet the zoning code requirements.

He told city Council last week he would not spend any money to bring the lot into compliance if it isn't already, since the city had been operating it as a parking lot for years as-is.

Favre said Friday that while the lot has been open for public parking for years, there have been new regulations enacted that may need to be addressed, such as a site plan review. The change in ownership of the lot, said Favre, may have triggered some additional regulations covering the lot.

After further study of the matter, however, the city determined a license was in order, he said.

Favre also said the city did pave the parking lot, but Hancock Bank was paying property taxes on the lot at the time.

the firemen wouldn't even let me go back and rescue my mama cat and her nine little blind babies. She was fricassee, and they were burnt up. At least there was no loss of human life. ... I'm just kind of numb and dumb-founded right now."

Paddle Wheel owner Norbert W. "Butsy" Kohlke was unavailable for comment.

The Paddle Wheel is no stranger to disaster.

The motel's restaurant and lounge — once located on adjoining property — burned in September 1996 after the building was struck by lightning.

The Paddle Wheel property was once the site of the Clermont Harbor Hotel, which first opened for business in 1915, and almost destroyed by a hurricane the same year. Russell Guerin, son of the Clermont's last owner, wrote in a Hancock Historical Society-published booklet that "after an expensive attempt at restoration, it was wrecked financially by the Great Depression of 1929.

"When a similar attempt was made in 1946, an early morning fire totally razed the structure on June 2; the grand reopening had been on June 1."

Jane Amos knew that she had to lose a lot of weight to find herself again. But more than that, to save her life. Like so many, she tried countless diets and medications. Their failure led to her depression and her fear of heart attack and stroke. Then Jane discovered the "Live Light" Surgical Weight Loss Program at Gulf Coast Medical Center. As part of the Weight Management Center, "Live Light" has helped Jane live a more active life. And if you ask us, it's a lifestyle that fits her quite nicely.

This testimonial reflects the results achieved by this patient. As each case is different and must be independently evaluated and managed, weight loss will vary.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

Redditt-Vaughn

Mrs. Richard Whitney Redditt Jr.

Gena Kay Vaughn and Richard Whitney Redditt Jr. were united in marriage at 6 p.m. Saturday, April 17, 1999 in a double-ring ceremony at First Baptist Church in Osceola with the Rev. Bob Wilson officiating. The reception followed at Riverlawn Country Club.

The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. Vaughn of Osceola. Her grandparents are Mrs. Bill Smith of Jonesboro, the late Gene Taylor of Monette and the late Mr. and Mrs. Milton Vaughn of Memphis.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Redditt of Bay St. Louis. He is the grandson of Thomas Miller and the late Mrs. Miller and the late Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Redditt.

Candelabra, covered with fresh greenery and studded with white flowers were in the center of the altar and on the edges. Arrangements of white lilies, tulips, irises and roses were on both sides. Greenery and gardenias marked the church pews.

The harpist, Mary Gourley of Tunica, provided music for the seating of the guests and lighting of the candles by Trey Hensley and Tyson Stack of Memphis. The organist, Dennis Hay of Blytheville, played "Music of the Night" by Weber for the seating of the family. He was joined by trumpeter Robert Robinson of Memphis for the processional, and John Dreshbach of Jonesboro sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a white satin, floor-length gown. The sleeveless lace empire bodice was beautifully hand beaded and sequined.

The pearled neckline was scooped in both the front and back. The bodice and detachable chapel train were accented with a triple row of pearls. Her waist-length veil, trimmed with a penciled edge, was secured by a custom designed tiara made of pearls and crystals mounted on a silver comb. She carried a bouquet of white flowers in a natural garden arrangement of roses, gardenias and lilies.

Heather Rand of Memphis was the bride's honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Michelle Redditt of Baton Rouge, sister of the bridegroom; Angela Johnson and Jennifer Speck, both of Memphis; Toni Leigh Curtis of Blytheville; and junior bridesmaid Katherine Vaughn of Thomaston, Ga.

Their gowns of emerald chiffon, by Waters and Waters, were long and sleeveless with Sabrina necklines and draped backs, accented with matching gloves and shoes. They carried bouquets of pale yellow and cream tulips, roses, lilies and ranunculus.

The flower girls were Ann Butler and Elizabeth Rhodes, both of Osceola. The ring bearer was Taylor Vaughn of Bartlett, Tenn.

The bridegroom selected Rake Marbury of Memphis as his honor attendant. Groomsmen were Andrew Giacconi of Mobile, Ala., Bela Nagy of Vero Beach, Fla., Wayne Williams of new Orleans and Michael Pickich of Pass Christian.

The guest were seated by Tyler Vaughn, Alex Bock, Jeff Sampson and James Rand, all of Memphis, George Nagy of Vero Beach and Paul Farrow of Slidell.

An arch of dogwood and greenery, studded with fresh flowers, was over the entrance to the main room at the Riverlawn Country Club. Garlands of greenery and flowers were entwined in silver candelabra on the buffet table. Fresh arrangements were on either side of the groom's cake, and fresh flowers decorated the bride's cake and table. Electric Mood Elevator provided the music.

The bride's assistants were Tori Gibson of Little Rock, Courtne Robinson of Fayetteville, Jennifer Pollock of New Orleans, Rhonda Formingoni of Richland, Miss., and Taunya Harrell of Memphis.

The bride has a bachelor's degree in marketing from Arkansas State University in Jonesboro where she was a member of Chi Omega. She is employed by Chrysler Financial Co. in Memphis.

The bridegroom graduated from Mississippi State University in Starkville where he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega. He is also employed by Chrysler Financial Co. in Memphis.

After a trip to Jamaica the couple now reside in Bartlett, Tenn.

"We may be hard to find but we know how to deal!"

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

The stately mountains outside Denver were a welcome contrast to the mid-summer heat and humidity of Houston, and Michael Fritzen was enjoying every minute of it. Rocky Mountain National Park's hiking trails beckoned to him.

Such vigorous exercise is great, especially for a hard working pastor in need of a break from building a new church and from all the stresses of a large urban parish.

However, hypertension, the silent killer, and high cholesterol creating blocked arteries had become life-threatening.

The exertion of hiking, coupled with the pulmonary strain of mile-high thin air, put too much stress on a circulatory system stressed out by hypertension and leaping cholesterol.

"A catastrophic coronary event," the doctor called it, which killed Michael very quickly despite CPR from passing hikers, stunning the parishioners and friends of the vibrant, ever-tense, motivated, pile-driving, efficient pastor.

Entirely curious about people and their activities, Michael never heard a conversation he was not attracted to and never met anyone whose pedigree and life he did not explore.

Numerous reflections flood our minds when a relatively young person full of the joie de vivre leaves us so suddenly. Somehow, such a person does not appear to be a candidate for critical illness, let alone death. Yes, 57 is still young.

Even as I write, the Gospel reading from today's Mass hangs in my memory from this morning's worship, dredging up the troubling problem of rapid decline in available priests: "The harvest is abundant, but the laborers are few. So ask the Master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest" (Matthew 9:36-38).

Other religious denominations, for the most part, seem to have far less of a problem finding people to answer the Master's call to ministry, and that would appear to be usually connected with their freedom to marry and rear a family.

Which causes many Catholics to long for a return to the old days when Paul was writing to Timothy, advising him that a bishop "must be irreproachable, married only once, temperate, self-controlled" (1 Timothy 3:2).

A pipe dream, to be sure, in today's landscape of the Church, even though many men, younger and older, state without blinking what they would gladly become priests if given the option to marry and have their own family.

Apart from this pipe dream, where do we return? To prayer, obviously, as we just quoted Jesus: "Ask the Master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest."

But we know God expects much more of us than prayer, although we must always keep our hotline with God. Could it be that there are tiny sparks all around us which must be seized and combined to ignite a fire and then a conflagration?

There is the spark of six year old Jacquan who mimics everything I say and do during Sunday Mass, then repeats it all every night before he turns in. Unprompted, he sings, prays, preaches, "says Mass" and declares he will be a priest.

Curiously, there are the small boys who regularly play in our parking lot, sometimes vandalizing windows and cars. They were galvanized when we joined hands and prayed together.

No doubt, we adults need to seek our children out often, hold hands and pray for ourselves and for each other.

Who will replace us?

Pets need special attention for summer, travel

Whether taking pets by car across country or letting them spend the summer in the backyard, hotter temperatures require special precautions.

Major concerns are heat stroke, heartworms and poisonings from household chemicals, as well as risks of injury if pets are free to roam more than normal, said Dr. Andrew Mackin of Mississippi State University's

College of Veterinary Medicine.

For at-home animals, adequate shade and plenty of fresh drinking water are essential.

Store all chemicals in a safe place, especially antifreeze, which has a sweet taste to animals
but is highly poisonous.

Because heartworms are transmitted by mosquitoes, summer is a time to take special precautions. Be sure your dog receives regular heartworm treatments.

If you plan to travel with a pet, Mackin recommends:

• Taking short trips initially to get the animal accustomed to travel and to provide the owner with a way to judge whether it's a good travel companion.

• Feeding only a light meal — or perhaps nothing — on long trips to avoid the possibility of caries.

• Taking frequent breaks to provide fresh water and a change for the animal to relieve itself.

Mackin says a cardinal rule of summer travel: "Never leave an animal unattended in a vehicle since the interior temperature can reach beyond 100 degrees in minutes."

If you must travel without your pet, he recommends asking a friend to be a caretaker. Consider kennels as a last resort, since animals can contract illnesses from other boarding pets.

Scharff book available at libraries

Louisiana's Loss, Mississippi's Gain: A History of Hancock County, Mississippi from the Stone Age to the Space Age by former resident Robert G. Scharff is available at all four branches of the Hancock County Library System -- Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Kiln and Pearlington libraries.

Scharff was born in Memphis, but grew up in Bay St. Louis and attended school there. He worked as a chemist in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Linden, New Jersey, Ashtabula, Ohio, Asheville and Charlotte, N.C.

He is now retired and lives in Charlotte. Although he considered himself neither a writer nor a historian, he got the idea for this book in 1996 when a local librarian told him that no books had been published on Hancock County's history.

For information on the book, call the Bay St. Louis Library at 467-5282; the Waveland Library at 467-9240, the Kiln Library at 255-1724, or the Pearlington Library at 538-0755.
